1. In September 1950, Alexandre Juskiewicz, assistant to Jerzy Putrament, the former Polish Ambassador to Paris and Bern, is reported to have said that the negotiations which were then under way in Warsaw were much more important than all the actions taken by the Security Council. In fact, the Cominform was meeting in Warsaw at this time to decide on measures that would sabotage the present rearming by member-countries of the Atlantic Pact. The Partisans of Peace were also participating in this meeting at Warsaw.
